2010 Summer Fellowship Program

Dates of program: June 7, 2010 through July 16, 2010

"A unique opportunity for first year medical students that introduces skills and experiences necessary to success in the challenging health care environment of tomorrow."

Program Components

This is a six-week program that is designed to prepare students for their future responsibilities and the challenges of being a physician. The program focuses on issues of health care delivery:

- Disease epidemiology
- Diagnosis and prevention
- Technology assessment
- Systems-based practice

There are two clinical tracks:

- 1) Internal Medicine and Subspecialty
- 2) Surgery and surgical Subspecialties

Both tracks have three components:

- Core Curriculum - a series of lectures and workshops focusing on clinical, medicine, epidemiology and health care strategies and trends. The core curriculum will be approximately 30% of the experience.
- Research Project - will be developed by preceptors and modified to meet the students' educational needs. Each student will spend about 40% of their time designing and creating then carrying out the project or study.
- Clinical Experience - will enhance the development of clinical skills and develop professionalism. Students will spend 30% of the fellowship shadowing a mentor, rotating in the OR and ER, and on inpatient rounds.

Program Faculty

The Program Faculty will be comprised of clinical physicians from various departments and research project preceptors.

Evaluation

Students will be provided with regular feedback and advice on an informal basis. Both the research project preceptor and an assigned clinical physician will be involved in this process.

Each student will have the opportunity to evaluate the program itself. Since its inception, the program has received excellent evaluations from participating students.

Selection

Participants are selected based on their personal statement of goals and objectives. Historically, half of the program participants attend regional medical schools and half attend a variety of other U.S. medical schools.

Compensation

Students participating in the Fellowship Program are provided with a total stipend of $2,100 (taxes are deducted) dispersed upon successful completion of the program.
